DEA announces change to registration process

November 17, 2016

On November 7, 2016, the United States Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) announced a change to their registration renewal process. Effective January 1, 2017, the DEA will send only one renewal certification to the “mail to” address for each DEA registrant approximately 65 days prior to the expiration date. With this change, the DEA will not send any reminder notifications to any registrant.

As part of this change, DEA registration renewal will no longer be available online after the expiration date of a license. If a license has expired, DEA registrants must apply for a new DEA registration.

Additional information concerning this announcement can be found on the DEA’s website.

The safety and security of our nation’s pharmaceutical supply chain is a top priority of First Veterinary Supply and the responsibility of the entire supply chain. Protecting consumers from the dangers of counterfeit drugs requires a concerted effort and cooperation among all entities involved in the manufacturing, distribution, and dispensing of prescription drugs.
